

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0094] Embodiments of the present invention relate to systems and methods for a converged service creation and execution application. In an embodiment, an application is coupled to an application server. One or more open application programming interfaces are coupled to the application server, and service session management logic is also coupled to the application server.

Document #: 1131644 v.2